

11

from "Lincoln, the Great Commoner"

The storm and stress of life!
 The curse of war and strife!
 The harsh vindictiveness of men!
 The cuts of sword and pen!
 What needed to be borne_he bore!
 What needed to be fought_he fought!
 But in his soul, he stood the up as_naught!
 (C.E.I.)

(1921)

Edwin Markham

f

Firmly, but actively and with vigor

ff marcato

maestoso, but not too slowly

.....And so he came from the prai - rie ca - bin to the Cap - i - tol,

ff

(by permission of the author, and of Doubleday, Page & Co. N.Y.)

One fair i - deal led out chief - tain on,.....

.....He built the rail pile as he build the State,.....

f The con - science test - ing - ev - ery stroke, to make his deed the mea - sure of the man.....

ffSo

came our Cap - tain with the might - y heart; and when the step of earth - quake shook the house, wrenching raf - ters from their an - cient hold, he held the ridge - pole up and spiked again the raf - ters of the Home.

He held his place he held the long pur - pose like a grow - ing tree

fff sf sf

* Play with fists.

Held on thro' blame and fal-tered not at praise, and when he fell in whirl - wind, he went down as when a King - ly ce - dar

majestically

rit.

ff (a little slower)

green with boughs goes down with a great shout, up - on the hills!

fff (pp)

fff